

TWO VILLAGES DESTROYED

Municipal Court Appropriation Is Voted by County

$1,050 Authorized by the Quorum Court at Washington Friday

COMPLY WITH LAW Special Session Forced by Oversight at Last No- vember's Meeting

An appropriation of $1,050 for the Hope Municipal Court, and an order for the necessary court records, were unanimously approved by the Hempstead Quorum Court in special session at Washington Friday morning.

The court had been called in session by County Judge L. F. Higginson to comply with an order of circuit court which required him to produce a municipal court appropriation by January 20. The order was handed down by Judge Dexter Bush December 19, in a deciding a bench case in favor of Municipal Judge W. A. Genney who was seeking to collect the half of his salary owed him by the county under state law.

Owing to their failure to be advised of the state law, so one of the justices said afterward, the levying court had rejected the municipal court appropriation at the regular session November 9, by a vote of 13 to 11.

At the session Friday, however, passage was declared unanimous. There were 24 justices present and qualified, two absent, and one present who failed to qualify. A. B. Avery, Nolan township, and A. V. McIver, Water Creek township, were the justices who were absent.

The appropriation voted for the municipal court Friday practically equals the amount saved the county in the reduction of justice court appropriations for 1932 against 1931. November a year ago there was voted for all J. P. courts $2,000. Last November the appropriation was cut to $1,000. The minor courts of DeFenton township, which now have been replaced by Hope Municipal Court, formerly required three-fourths of the annual J. P. appropriation, it was said.

Police Take Trial To Besiege Hermit

Redcoat Squad Mushes North in Third Attempt to Arrest Trapper

AKLAVIK, N. W. T.—(P)—A squad of mounted policemen was on the trail Thursday of a third attempt to dislodge Albert Johnson, a hermit trapper, from his cabin in Rat river.

The trapper, who is well supplied with ammunition and rifles and pistols, has withstood two attacks of police. He is accused of shooting and wounding Constable A. M. King, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, when King and Constable R. G. McDowell went to his cabin to question him concerning complaints of Indians that their trap lines were being robbed.

McDowell drove a dog team the 80 miles to Aklavik with King on the sled, seriously but not fatally wounded.

A posse then was formed but it was met by rifle and pistol fire when the men attempted to approach the stronghold, which Johnson, believed to be a hermit, had built on a brush-covered promontory so that only a frontal attack was possible.

Bombs and rifle fire failed to dislodge the trapper, who found safety in a tunnel beneath his cabin when bomb explosions broke in the door and tore holes in the roof.

With supplies growing scanty, a guard was left near the cabin to prevent Johnson's escape and the constables returned here to prepare for another attack.

Heavily armed and with supplies for a long campaign, the mounties will set up a base at the mouth of the Rat river, 20 miles below Johnson's cabin.

Charge of Homicide Fol- lowing Auto Accident Placed Against Youth

NEW YORK.—(P)—Former governor Smith's son, Walter, 22, was arrested early Friday on a technical charge of homicide, resulting from an automobile accident in which an aged bovery resident was killed.

Police said the accident was unavoidable but the law calls for arrest in such cases.

Roosevelt Gets Angry at Story in Magazine

ALBANY, N. Y.—(P)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York and potential democratic presidential nominee, labeled as a "contemptible liar" the person circulating a report that he called his democratic predecessor, Alfred E. Smith, a "rotten governor."

The remark is attributed to Roosevelt in a current issue of a weekly magazine by an anonymous author, who carried the remark as an unsubstantiated rumor.

Asked about the report Thursday the New York governor snapped back:

"You can say officially and on the record that any man who circulates a story of that kind is not only a liar, but a contemptible liar."

The magazine article was based on the long-discussed reports of a feud between Smith, democratic presidential nominee in 1928, and Roosevelt.

Thirty-Six Attend Robison Co. Meet

Prescott and Nashville Staffs Meet With Hope Thursday

Thirty-six persons, members of the Geo. W. Robison & Co. department stores in Southwest Arkansas, and their guests, were entertained at the Hope store in a personnel meeting Thursday night.

It was one of a series of regular conferences held by the Hope, Prescott and Nashville stores, the last meeting having been staged in Nashville, and the next to be held at Prescott. Mr. Robison, who presided, talked on "Service," declaring that the Robison company had great buying advantage over smaller business houses, but its margin of success depended upon the service given the public.

He pointed out that all three stores had taken on additional help this month to provide better service for their respective communities. Reviewing the unsettled business conditions of the last two years, he said that the success of 1932 both for the stores and their employees would depend entirely on the effort the individual makes to sell America back to prosperity.

Alex. H. Washburn, publisher of The Star, who was a guest, paid tribute to the large and aggressive business. Mr. Robison had built up. He said that employees the world over had cause to be grateful for a connection with successful and sound enterprises during the panic from which this country is now emerging.

Following the meeting, Mr. Robison entertained the crowd with refreshments at the John P. Cox Drug company. He was later the guests of Manager Howard Shuster at the final night performance at the Saenger theater.

The following persons attended the meeting: Nashville Staff: Herbert Burns, Lige Tollett, Miss Lige Tollett, Miss Lena Stone, J. G. Griffin and Aaron Tollett.

Prescott Staff: Mr. and Mrs. Clint Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Pye; Dawson Henry, Leo Montgomery, Mrs. Jesse Spradlin, Mrs. Joe Maher, Mrs. Lolla McCargo.

Hope Staff: Geo. W. Robison, Miss Lovena Ruggles, Geo. W. Robison, Jr., Mrs. Claude Stuart, Miss Alice Armstrong, Mrs. Lil Robertson, Miss Mae Jamison, Mrs. Corbin Foster, Mrs. Jett Talley, George Wilson, Jr., Corbin Foster, Hugh Latimer, Logan Bailey, Philip Foster, Clyde Coffee and David Frith.

Guests: Mrs. Geo. W. Robison, Miss Lou Knoble, Mrs. Herbert Burns, Mrs. C. C. Lewis, Harold B. Tollett, son of Lige Tollett, and Mr. Washburn.

L. M. Daley Dies Near Lewisville

Former Hope Resident in Ill Health for Several Months

LEWISVILLE.—Rev. L. M. Daley, 70, died at his home two miles north of Lewisville, Tuesday.

Mr. Daley was a retired Methodist minister and had been engaged in real estate business for the past two years.

He was active in Sunday school and church work, and taught a class of young men.

He is survived by his wife, one sister, Mrs. W. M. Garner of Hope, two brothers M. G. Daley of Little Rock, and Walter, of Smackover.

Mr. Daley was well known in Hope, having lived here a number of years before moving to Lewisville. He was a native of Nevada county, the old family home being near Bodcaw.

Arkansas Town Ruled Entirely by Women

Mrs. Eva McLane Runs Municipal Affairs of Mt. Ida From Her Sunny Kitchen—the Men Stand Back in Admiration

Editor's Note: The following story is borrowed from Mr. Hearst's leased wire, Universal Service. The author wrote it while visiting her parents in El Dorado. She had returned to Arkansas to do a series of articles on Hot Springs and vicinity for the Hearst newspapers. Miss Roe is an El Dorado girl who was graduated from the University of Missouri in 1924 and joined the El Dorado News when The Star's editor was managing editor of that paper. Miss Roe went from El Dorado to Los Angeles two years later to become a feature writer for Mr. Hearst's Examiner. Later she joined the Chicago Herald-Examiner, another Hearst paper, at a large salary; and two years ago became woman's feature editor of the Hearst Universal leased wire in New York City. This Arkansas girl was rated last year by Liberty magazine as being one of the 10 foremost women newspaper writers in America.

MT. IDA, Ark.—A suffragette's paradise is perched high in the hills of southern Arkansas.

It is this little town of Mt. Ida, where women rule supreme. A woman mayor and a complete set of feminine officials crack the whip of government here while the men loom on in open-mouthed admiration.

Mrs. Eva McLane, a Gray-haired, motherly woman, runs the town from her sunny kitchen. And, between baking fluffy biscuits and feeding the chickens, she settles all masculine disputes with a firm hand.

She was elected Mayor by universal vote of the 600 citizens of Mt. Ida, as were the six matrons who form her council.

Interviewed in her combination living room and mayor's office, she untied her apron, smiled affably, and said:

"Well, I never went in for politics before, but I must say things are a lot better in this town since we women stepped in and took charge.

"The men themselves suggested it. I guess they were just plain tired of maybe laziness. Anyhow they put my name and the names of my six council members on the ticket, and we were unopposed in the election.

"The first thing we did was to have a clean-up week—men never do know about such things. And now we're working on a plan to put a fence around the court house lawn and plant shrubs and flowers. We want to sink an artesian well, too, so we'll have water for the fire department to use.

"Nothing much got done around here while the men were running the town, but now everybody says we're up-and-coming community."

In her position as Mayor of Mt. Ida, Mrs. McLane appoints the police department, street commissioner and fire chief. The merchants bring her their dimensions to settle, and the village never do-wells regard her with a wary eye. There has been only one arrest for drunkenness in the year that Mrs. McLane has held office, and all time record. The Mayor's husband, J. R. McLane, looks at his woman rulered town with resignation. He speaks with pride of "my wife, the mayor," and says: "What can you do? They even named the town after a woman."

When Mrs. McLane was elected Mayor by universal vote of the 600 citizens of Mt. Ida, as were the six matrons who form her council.

Interviewed in her combination living room and mayor's office, she untied her apron, smiled affably, and said:

VALUE OF TOURISTS W. J. Watson Urges Sup- port of the Broadway of American Association

Hope Rotary club heard plans explained for the development of the Broadway of America association, and was entertained collectively by five college girls from Magnolia A. & M. college, at luncheon Friday in Hotel Barlow.

The college girls appeared on an entertainment program arranged by Alex. H. Washburn of the program committee, and were introduced by Terrell Cornelius. They were:

Miss Evelyn Hunt, violinist; Miss Mary Louise Keith, vocal soloist; Miss Mabel Haley, reader; Miss Lola Hunt, dancer; and Miss Marjorie Smith, accompanist and piano soloist. The girls were under supervision of Miss Jewell Stevens, of the public speech department of Magnolia A. & M.

Highway Speaker

Mr. Cornelius introduced W. J. Watson, field representative of the Broadway of America association, El Paso, Texas, who spent Friday in Hope and Prescott, arranging for the installation of signs marking this transcontinental highway through Southwest Arkansas.

Mr. Watson told of his trip on the state's new paved road from Memphis, No. 70, to Little Rock, and on No. 67 to Prescott and Hope. Entering Arkansas he was met by J. G. Thweatt, of DeWalt Bluff, Arkansas vice-president of the Broadway association, and was well received down the line.

Mr. Watson explained some of the policies of the Broadway association, relating principally to highway routes. "We do not advocate cut-offs," he said. "Even if it were possible to draw a straight line from Texarkana across Arkansas to Memphis it wouldn't be desirable. We want tourists, for instance, to visit and see Hot Springs, the oldest national park in America."

Value of Tourists

"We want tourists to linger with us, not dash right through the state. If a tourist were able to cross Arkansas with no more expense than the few cents charged as tax on 10 gallons of gasoline, then tourists would be a liability instead of an asset."

"But tourists are worth-while. They will bring into a state millions of dollars a year, traveling leisurely through our midst, viewing our sights, and spending along the way the money necessary for any kind of tour."

A small amount of money is to be raised in Hope to help place highway markers along No. 67, Mr. Cornelius explained, identifying this paved road the route of the transcontinental highway which begins in San Diego, Cal., and ends in New York City.

Young Woman Hurt In Highway Mishap

Mrs. Barney Burke, 19, of Mineral Springs, in Cri- tical Condition

Mrs. Barney Burke, 19, was in a critical condition at Michael Meager hospital in Texarkana Thursday night following injuries received Wednesday afternoon when the truck in which she was riding left the highway near Shiloh, four miles west of Mineral Springs, and overturned.

Her husband and brother, Marlo Hamilton, were slightly hurt. They remained at their home near Shiloh for medical treatment. Aubrey Denison, owner and driver of the truck, was not injured.

Physicians at the hospital said Mrs. Burke probably received internal injuries in addition to a badly mangled dislocated shoulder and broken elbow.

The group was en route to a neighborhood party when the accident occurred. Actual details of the accident were meager at Mineral Springs where the injured were taken following the crash.

Denison told a physician he lost control of the vehicle after he turned his head to look back over his shoulder at another automobile approaching from the rear. The truck struck a slick space in the highway, skidded over the embankment and overturned.

Occupants of the automobile directly behind the truck assisted the injured from beneath the wreckage and rushed them to Mineral Springs.

An examination at Mineral Springs convinced a physician that Mrs. Burke was critically hurt and she was taken to Texarkana by E. C. Nutt, of Mineral Springs.

Hospital attendants said Mrs. Burke's condition was made more critical from the shock received and from loss of blood.

Admits Slaying Kidnaped Girl

Charles Bishoff, 45, who has been held in jail in Cincinnati since December 22, confessed the murder of 6-year-old Marian McLean after days of questioning. Bishoff signed a detailed statement of his actions during the five days which followed little Marian's kidnaping December 7.

Rate Agreement on Cotton Reached

Barge Line Heads and Railroad Executives Hold Meeting

MEMPHIS.—(P)—Major General Thomas Ashburn, chairman of the Board of the Inland Waterways Commission announced Friday that a "satisfactory solution" of the controversy over Federal barge line cotton rates had been reached at a conference here Thursday of railroad officials and barge line representatives.

Terms of the agreement were unannounced however.

The controversy arose over sharp reductions in cotton rates on shipments announced by the barge lines for shipments from the Memphis area to New Orleans.

Fire Causes $10,000 Damage at Stamps

C. L. Cabe Store, Former- ly Bodcaw Store, Burns Wednesday Night

STAMPS, Ark.—Damage totaling $10,000 was caused here when fire started at about 10 p. m. Wednesday razed the C. L. Cabe store.

The grocery and dry goods departments of the establishment, which is the largest in Stamps, were practically destroyed, while a newly-installed department featuring office equipment was damaged.

The warehouse back of the store was saved by volunteer firemen, who also did much in preventing the destruction of the entire building.

The office of the store also was damaged by the flames, but no records were lost, since they were kept in a fire-proof vault.

C. L. Cabe, proprietor of the store came here from Texarkana Thursday morning. He recently purchased the concern from the Bodcaw Lumber company, following a period in which he was employed by the lumber company as manager of the store.

Widow of Former County Judge Dies

Mrs. Mary V. B'Shers Succumbs at Home Near Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK.—Mrs. Mary Virginia B'Shers, aged 67, widow of Dr. H. L. B'Shers, died at midnight Wednesday at her home on the Upper Hot Springs road. She was the daughter of John D. and Mary Crabtree Jones and a native of Washington, Hempstead county. She was a member of Christ Episcopal church.

Efforts to capture Charles "Pretty Boy" Floyd, the most sought criminal in the state, were redoubled after he was identified by witnesses as one of three machine gun robbers who looted the State Bank of Castle. The Castle robbers forced two bank officials and two customers to accompany them to the outskirts of the city as protection against gunfire.

T. Elliott, cashier and H. H. Gray, assistant cashier and Glenn Dill and George Morrett, the captives, were released upon promises of the robbers that they would not be harmed.

While officers were trailing the robbers, three unmasked men looted the first National Bank of Paden of $2,500 kidnaped C. L. Sutherland, assistant cashier, and escaped. Sutherland was released at Holly, six miles away from the bank.

Mrs. B'Shers was the wife of the late H. L. B'Shers, who served as county judge of Hempstead county beginning his term in 1922. The family moved to near Little Rock several years ago.

Heavy snows and dropping temperatures chilled sections of California, Wyoming, New Mexico, and Montana were cold and clear while snow blocked the highways in southern Idaho and Nevada.

Floods pounded against the Mississippi delta levees, many families fled to higher ground.

Explosion of dynamite echoed about the Tallahechee as homes were sought to save their property at the expense of others.

TRENTON, Tenn.—(P)—Several members of a family were killed and five injured, one perhaps fatally, when a tornado ripped their farm home pieces 11 miles from here Thursday night.

Some of the injured were taken to hospitals here. Others were taken to Dyersburg, Tenn.

The first report of the disaster came from a woman who had been injured in the explosion of dynamite here by an undertaker who sent a general ambulance to the scene.

The ambulance driver said he was bringing five injured persons here and that seven whose names he did not know, had been killed. Two persons were reported missing.

Calls for help were delayed by broken lines of communication. The telephone operator said the line to Eaton was down but that her information had been received over a crossed line.

Six doctors and several nurses were sent to the stricken community.

Both towns are small communities. F. H. Crenshaw, a farmer, told of seeing the Rice home, "picked up and jerked to pieces" by the rapidly moving funnel-shaped black cloud.

"While standing in my yard, I heard a roaring in the southwest and saw a black cloud, dipping down in the shape of a funnel, possibly a couple of miles away."

"It traveled very rapidly and its noise almost deafened me as it came near my place and then struck directly at the Rice home."

"When it hit, the air was filled with flying particles."

"The house was torn all to pieces and scattered over a wide area. We found Mrs. Rice's body near the house. A little distance away I found one of the little girls, badly injured. Other members of the family were found scattered over a radius of 100 yards or so, some of them dead and others badly hurt."

 Improve city pavement in 1932, and improved sanitary conditions in the alleys and business back-yards.
 Support the Chamber of Commerce.

COUNTY

A county highway program providing for the construction of a certain amount of all-weather road each year, to gradually reduce the winter road mileage.
 Political and economic support for every scientific agricultural program which offers practical benefits to Hempstead county's greatest industry.
 Encourage farmer organizations, believing that co-operative effort is as practical to the country as it is in town.

STATE

Continued progress on the state highway program.
 Feasible tax reform, and a more efficient government through the budget system of expenditures.

Taking the Blame

ANYONE who has occasion to drop into Criminal court very often must get the depressing thought, now and then, that one of the chief offenders against our laws never gets into the dock as a defendant.

All manner of people come before the judge for sentence in the course of a year. But Society itself—the framework that all of us have built up to work by and live by—never comes to trial. And sometimes it is very culpable.

The other day a 17-year-old New York boy was arrested for taking $60,000 worth of jewels from the apartment of a Park avenue millionaire.

This youth worked for a firm of interior decorators as a sort of errand boy. In that capacity—he had held the job three years—he entered the homes of the wealthy nearly every week. His salary was $13 a week, and he gave $10 of it to his mother to help support the family. The remaining $3 were all his own.

His theft seems to have been impulsive and stupid. More out of curiosity than anything else, he opened a wall safe in this apartment, saw a glittering pile of jewels and pocketed them. Frightened and perplexed, he had made no attempt to turn them into cash when arrested.

A New York newspaper, describing the case, remarked:
 "He lives on a run-down street between warehouses, cheap shops, garages, tenements and old dwellings from which the paint is peeling. The street meets Park avenue beside a railroad yard. . . . In his squalid home a reporter found his mother weeping. She did not know what she was going to do now, she said, as he had been her chief support ever since he left school."

There is no use, of course, in getting sentimental and soft-hearted about youthful jewel thieves. But when you think of this youngster's life, and remember how, at 17, he was the chief support of a family, living in a miserable neighborhood and being obliged, almost daily, to look on the ostentatious wealth of Park avenue, it makes you wonder.

Ought not our society, which puts its Park avenues so maddeningly close to its stifling tenements and turns boys of 17 into $13-a-week breadwinners, to admit at least a part of the responsibility in this case?

When County Seats Are Only an Hour Apart

AS a means of conserving revenue that might then be used for the benefit of the schools, a sweeping consolidation of the 75 counties of Arkansas is suggested by Walter B. Sorrells Jr., in the Pine Bluff Commercial. As an illustration of the changed conditions of today he points out that Pine Bluff and Star City used to lie two days' travel apart. It took a whole day to go from the county seat of Jefferson county to that of Lincoln county, and another day to return. Now, we are told, these two places are less than an hour apart.

Reduction in travel time—and therefore in distance as it affects the public convenience—has been brought about practically everywhere in the state by improved roads and motor vehicles. What has happened so strikingly in the Pine Bluff-Star City case has happened to a greater or less degree in the cases of other county seats. When the people begin to think about it, they cannot fail to realize that tax-raised money is being fruitlessly spent when two and perhaps more county governments are maintained in a territory which one could serve. The discussion of merger possibilities in the Pine Bluff Commercial and other Arkansas newspapers should lead the public to think about this matter. It is of the most practical interest to all the people as taxpayers, and of special interest to all who need more from county governments in the way of educational and public welfare service than their counties are now able to give or ever will be able to give.—Arkansas Gazette.

Gandhi in Prison

THIS may be only a passing incident, or it may loom large in history. When Gandhi was arrested again at his home in India, at 3:30 in the morning, with thousands of followers waiting outside to witness the event, he smiled and gave them this message:

"Infinite is God's mercy. Tell the people never to swerve from the truth of non-violence, never to flinch, to give their lives and all to win independence."

"Tell your countrymen," he said the British correspondents, "that I bear them no ill will. I am fighting them out of love."

To the Indian peasants he said: "Cheerfully suffer your fields, households and cattle to be confiscated. Go to jail.
 Bear with lathi (native police). Welcome bullets."

Then he took leave of his family, comforting them as well as he could, and walked calmly off to prison.
 What can Great Britain—what can any person or any power—do with such a man? There may be only one person in all history to compare him with. And he preaches the same forbearance, the same non-resistance, as the way to conquer.—Harrisburg Times

Brother Says Murray Will Seek Presidency

BISMARCK, N. D.—(P)—Abrother of Governor W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma Wednesday said he expected the latter would be a democratic presidential candidate in the North Dakota primary election March 15.

The brother, George T. Murry, of Berhold, N. D., came here to learn how to enter the governor in the contest.

Man Found Unconscious at the Seenger Theatre

A man giving his name as Don Tawney, of near Arkadelphia, was rushed from the Seenger Theatre to Julia Chester hospital about 8:30 clock Thursday night in an unconscious condition.
 Theatre employees say the man apparently fainted and was rendered unconscious.
 He regained consciousness within a few minutes after arriving at the hospital and told the attendants he had accompanied his brother, Herbert, to Hope, and was to attend the picture show while he waited for his brother to return to Arkadelphia.

Farm Outlook Meeting Held at Magnolia

MAGNOLIA.—The out-of-town speakers at the farm outlook meeting which was held in Magnolia Wednesday were E. D. White, assistant economist of the extension department of the University of Arkansas, who spoke on "The World Business Situation and the Credit Outlook," and on "Livestock, Poultry and Dairy," G. W. Ware, assistant director of the fruit and truck experiment station at Hope, spoke on "The Outlook of the Cotton, Fruit and Trucking Business."

The general thought of the meeting was that the crops will have to be raised as economically as possible to meet the low prices.
 A large number of A. & M. college students attended the meeting, as well as other representatives of the county.

Railroad Deliberations Are Delayed at Chicago

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Deliberations of the railway brotherhoods and a committee of nine railroad presidents were deferred until Friday when Daniel Willard, chairman of the executives, announced that a question if the authority vested in some of the railway presidents had arisen.
 Willard, who is president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, said that some sort of restrictions on the authority given the railway committee of nine by some of the western roads and the far eastern lines, "needed clarifying and he would immediately telephone the railroads in attempt to straighten out the technicality."

The brotherhood delegates were ready to plunge into the joint discussion of wage reductions and alleviations of unemployment, but they acceded to the desire of the committee representing the employers.
 The chairman of the railway committee said it was apparent some of the lines had not understood the measure of authority the committee of nine required.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGN

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and breaks the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
 Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irrita-

"What is the real good?"
We asked in musing mood.
"Order," said the law court;
"Knowledge," said the school;
"Truth," said the wise man;
"Pleasure," said the fool;
"Love," said the maiden;
"Beauty," said the page;
"Freedom," said the dreamer;
"Home," said the sage;
"Fame," said the soldier;
"Equity," said the seer.
Spoke my heart full sadly:
"The answer is not here."
Then within our bosom
Softly this we heard;

Mrs. Chas. Brant had Thursday over-night guest, Mrs. Minnie Haynes of Camden.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Perdue of Louann were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Linaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Max Cox were Tuesday guests of friends in Texarkana.

Friends will be glad to know that Mrs. Dale Wilson, who is a patient in the Cora Donnell hospital in Prescott, shows continued improvement.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Bowen, who are to leave soon for their new home in San Marcus, Tex., were honor guests at a party given on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Fannie Garrett on West Second street. The party was planned as a surprise, and was sponsored by the choir of the First Baptist church. The spacious rooms of the Garrett home presented a very gay appearance with its beautiful decorations of cut flowers and potted plants. Dr. and Mrs. Bowen were invited to come, with the choir for regular choir practice, but upon their arrival, found a very different scene. A number of singing contests, under the direction of Mrs. J. C. Carlton and Mrs. Kline Snyder furnished fun for the evening and the following musical program was given: Vocal selections, Miss M. H. Winburn and Miss Frances Snyder; selections sung by male quartette, composed of Messrs. Keith, Bowden, Brown and Taylor; solo, Miss E. H. Locke; harmonicon selections, Mrs. Belle Jones. At the close of the program, Mrs. Carlton, in her usual pleasing manner, presented the honor guests with a beautiful gold cloth bed spread, as a token of appreciation and esteem from the choir. Dr. Bowen was also given a package of envelopes bearing the name of each of the choir members, with a request to write. The following little jingle was enclosed with the spread: When the nights are dark and dreary / When the moon and stars wont shine / When your head is aching weary, / And for Arkansas you pine, / When the ghosts of the Texas Rangers, / Come creeping round your bed, / You'll be safe from all dangers / If you'll cover with this spread.

The guests then returned to the dining room, where they partook of a most tempting buffet luncheon, with Mesdames Garrett, Snyder, Carlton, Yarbrough and Garrison presiding.

Emmet B. Y. P. U. to Present Play January 18

"Getting Rid of Eppie," a two act play will be presented by the Emmet Senior B. Y. P. U. at the High School auditorium in Emmet on Saturday night, January 18. The play is under the direction of Miss Rosalie Arnett. It is the plan of this group to present this play in several other communities in the near future, according to Miss Arnett.

The play has a splendid cast of Emmet residents and is expected to draw a large crowd wherever it is presented.

Ashdown-Hope Game Friday Night

Large Crowd Expected; Fast Game Predicted by Basketball Fans

The most thrilling game of the basketball season is promised at 7:30 Friday night, when the Ashdown Panthers will oppose the Hope Bobcats at the local gymnasium.

Following the Ashdown-Hope game the Columbus boys will play the Texarkana, Ark., high school team.

The lineup for the locals is as follows: Kennedy, England, Hamiter, Llewellyn, Urban, forwards; Breeding, Lloyd, centers; Pritchett, Adams, Berry and L. England, guards.

Columbus won the district championship last year and so far this season they have lost only one game. Ashdown was runner up in the district and has defeated Hope in every game of previous years.

Hope has a strong team this season, however, they have lost only one game. The game Friday night is expected to be hard fought.

Texarkana has a strong quintet. It is said they not only have their eyes set on the district championship but the state championship this season.

LEWIS STONE, SIDNEY FOX, GEORGE MEEKER, PAUL LUKAS, and WILLIAM RICCARDI in "STRICTLY DISHONORABLE." A UNIVERSAL PICTURE

"A Love-Hungry girl will go to any length in her quest for happiness." This is the assertion of Sidney Fox, beautiful little brunette actress who recently deserted the stage to embark on a career in motion pictures. Her third motion picture is "Strictly Dishonorable," the season's most eagerly awaited comedy drama which comes to the Sanger Theatre on Sunday and Monday.

"A normal girl," says Miss Fox "needs love as an integral part of her life, and her life cannot be complete without it. Call it the mating instinct, if you will, but the fact remains that the attraction of the sexes is of such transcendent potency that nature itself defeats any attempt to stifle the feeling.

"And so, if a girl is starving for love, nothing on earth will dissuade her from seeking it, and she will go as far as need be in her effort to secure it. But, regardless of the depth of her desire, there will be no interference with the nicety of her selection. There will be no headlong rushing into an affair of the heart without the discrimination that is a natural part of her being—not, at least, in an overwhelming majority of cases.

"When a girl starts on her quest for love, she is usually totally unable to say just what sort of man she is seeking. She does not know. But when she finally comes upon him, she realizes at once that here is a man she could love, honor, and perhaps obey. But there is no controlling the dictates of the human heart."

The personal feelings of Miss Fox are directly in line with her cinematic attitude in her latest production, which is "Strictly Dishonorable." Universal's romantic story of a great love which has its inception in a New York "spokeasy." Though she is accompanied by the man to whom she is engaged, she is immediately attracted to a philandering opera singer impersonated by Paul Lukas. When her fiancé leaves the place in anger, she is totally undismayed on the singer's invitation to spend the night in his apartment.

This, too, in spite of the fact that she is thoroughly unsophisticated, and that she has already been informed by her new acquaintance that his intentions toward her are "strictly dishonorable."

Lewis Stone is featured with Lukas and Miss Fox in "Strictly Dishonorable," and the supporting cast includes Sidney Toler, George Meeker, William Ricciardi, Carlo Schipa and Samuel Bonello. The screen play was adapted by Gladys Lehman from the New York stage success of the same name, and was directed by John M. Stahl.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE

BY KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

Copyright, 1931, by Doubleday,
Doran and Co.

CHAPTER XXXIII

"I CAN'T help it," said Mary-Frances. "My family would never in this world think of letting me go."

"Your family? Or people?" said Earl. "Say, listen, hon. I'd be the man on earth to influence any girl to do as she pleases."

"You ain't got a happy home life, are you?" asked Mary-Frances. "And you're crazy about me; and I'm crazy about you."

"Now, look at it from that point of view. And leave me tell you this: A girl with your looks and shape could sure go far—travel, see the world."

"And come home," dreamed Mary-Frances. "And be rich and famous, and bring presents to everybody, and all would be forgiven, and—"

"Well, yeah, sure. Now, after I got that letter from Butt yesterday, I got to thinking—see? I got to take his back—see? Well, what was thinking was, why couldn't you and I just skip out, most any night now, in the bus together. No waiting, no keepings in touch through letters, like you said."

"I didn't say, 'keeping in touch through letters,'" said Mary-Frances. "I said, 'keeping in touch through letters.'"

"Well, whatever it was, we'd be in Denver in eight of a week, wouldn't we?"

"That's what I'm thinking," said Mary-Frances. "She had, of course, planned for his bridesmaids, and Earl had planned for his. But—"

"Have you heard about Mary-Frances Fenwick and that hand-some fellow?"

"Well—er—hon—I've been mean-ly for quite a while to tell you about that. As a matter of fact, I'm not fixed to get married for about four months yet—see? By the terms of my father's will I can't get married until I'm 25 years old—see?"

"Whether or not Mary-Frances saw, she did not immediately say, and no wonder. Here was material for thought. She might have guessed that Earl's father had ever made such a silly will—fathers rarely do so. She might have been considering Earl's age in connection with the possibility, at least, that he had been married and divorced and could not remarry before a year had elapsed. Or, granting her trustfulness, or credulity, or both, and without accusing her of cupidry, she might have been speculating as to the extent of the fortune to which Earl was so soon to fall heir. Her answer finally spoken, may or may not be indicative of the thought processes that conspired it.

"We could be engaged," she said. "And you could go on to Denver, and I could go to the girls' camp, like I'd planned. It is going to be better than ever this year, and Mr. Hill is going to arrange so that Earl and I can have parties to ride and everything; and I've got my knicker suit already, and there's going to be a swimming tournament, and Cissy said I could borrow her swimming suit. It is so much prettier than mine. We'd have a secret engagement, and we could write letters, and I'd dedicate long hours to go off in the woods and think about you. If the girls thought it was queer, or anything, Earl could kind of tell them—just hint you know—that and a beautiful thought kind of sorrowful secret. We'd be faithful all through the years, and—"

"Cripes!" he interposed. "What's the use of all the agony? I'm not much hand at writing letters. Never was. 'Nother thing, you're overlooking the main issue—see? What about the act? What's going to happen to the act, with you off in that damn—pardon me—camp and in Denver without a partner nor anything? Trouble with you, hon, you got no imagination. We're crazy about one another—see? You being so poetical and pretty and all. How'd I feel thinking about you, left alone out here, prey to any evils and temptations that might come along, and not a happy home life nor anything? A successful performer, he's got to put his heart into it as well as his legs—see? Or it won't get across. It won't get across."

"You mean," interpreted Mary-Frances, "that if I don't go with you it will ruin your professional career?"

"Hell!" said a sorely overruled and perhaps a slightly overwrought Mr. DeArmont. "I got no professional career at present, have I?"

"Well," rebuked Mary-Frances. "I must say, Earl—"

"Now, hon, don't get sore. Don't do it. I shouldn't of talked that way. You'll have to excuse me. I just forgot myself. What I mean to say is—well, how I mean is—I need you, Frankie; honest I do."

The crown was heavy for her pretty young head. Her chin went down instead of up. Intuitively she knew that she had won the guerdon of womanhood, "I need you." But the trouble was, though she was aware of its worth and unaware of its dangers, she did not want it. Agnor was not her grandpa.

"It ain't," Earl went on, "that I don't see your point of view and all like that. But I'm a gentleman. If you know anything about me by this time you must know that. I'm a gentleman—see? And I give you my word of honor—my holy word of honor—that I'd treat you square, see? Straight, see? And when I mean straight I don't mean maybe. And you won't be much more anxious than I am for the final—that is to say, for the final time to come when we can get married and everything open and aboveboard—see? Until that time comes, I'm telling you, Frankie—pals, buddies, absolutely. No more and no less, see?"

"Well," demurred Mary-Frances. "I'll think it over again. But I don't much believe I'd better go."

"Think it over—huh? Say, listen, Frankie, if this was any other girl but you I'd think you were stringing me—see? Playing me for a sucker. I know you ain't. I know how pure and sincere and unselfish you are and everything. But, just the same, you've been thinking this matter over for weeks now—see? We haven't got any more time to waste—see? Here it is June already, and we got to go to Denver, and get the guy there to fix us up on an act, and we got to rehearse it and get to Chicago in time for a decent booking in the fall. Now, like I was saying, we're crazy about one another. All right. Why can't we take the bus and skip—most any night now? You could tell your folks you was spending the night with your chum, and we'd be all right. I can't keep on sticking around here—see? Come on, now, Frankie! You ain't going to leave me cold—see? Not after everything you've said and all, are you? Come on, now. Give me your promise, and we'll seal it, like you say, with a sweet little kiss."

"Quite a little one," stipulated Mary-Frances.

Earl said, "Cripes!" when the little kiss was over, but he went on to say, "Sometimes it kind of seems to me that you just take it all out in talking, Frankie."

"Earl!" said Mary-Frances. "Heart's dearest!"

"Sure, I know. I'm glad you're that type and all—see? But what about the promise?"

"I'll give you my answer on Tuesday night."

"Nix, hon. Now. Now or never—think's a good rule. You got to make up your mind, and that's all there is to it—see? I got to beat it out here by the middle of the week at the latest."

"I have to think it over some more," said Mary-Frances. "I just have to."

"How about tomorrow night, Monday, then?"

"Well—" Mary-Frances acceded. "Remember, I have promised to give him my answer this very night!"—"tomorrow night, then, beloved."

"Yes or no, then, tomorrow night. No kidding? No fooling?"

"I promise," said Mary-Frances.

Cecil said, "You know, Ann, I do feel sort of better," and pushed away the bowl, emptied now of its hot, stimulating milk, and nibbled at the last crumbs of toast. "Not," she explained, "that I'm happier—but, well, just spunkier, maybe. You have been good for me, angel."

Ann asked, "I, or the hot milk after you'd eaten nothing since yesterday?" and added, "Sister's girl," and picked up the bowl and plate to wash them along with the other dishes piled in the sink.

"I'll put a little on," Cecil sighed, "I suppose we'll have to do those ding dishes tonight. Mary-Frances might have washed them for once. It wouldn't have hurt her."

"It is on and boiling. I'll wash them; you dry them. Mary-Frances would have, if you'd told her. She just doesn't think."

"Well, we thought. We had to, when we were her age."

"I know. But we were different."

"Yes, but why were we? I think we are different yet. And what's the matter with us, anyway? Other girls grow up and have jobs, and boy friends, and good times, and get engaged, and then they get married and have babies and keep on being happy. Look at us. Quarreling with our beaus and everything. Just a mess."

"Well—Don't pour that water over them, honey. It's too hot. Never mind. It was only a jelly glass. What was I saying? Oh, yes. We've had worries and responsibilities all along. Sometimes I think Phil was right when he said that we didn't have any definite point that we could place and begin to hope."

"Hope! Shoot, Ann—that's what we do best. That's what we're at ways done—wait around and holler hope. You told me yourself, half an hour ago, not to hope. It is the best bit of advice I've had. Look at Grand and Rosalie—hoping. Two summer homes, and—"

"Poor dears," said Ann.

She Helps Spend $10,000,000 a Year!—Here you see Princess Aga Khan, former Paris shop girl, who now helps her Indian-plebeian husband spend the $10,000,000, he is reported to receive from his followers each year. She is shown, left, as she appears in a Parisian costume and at the right is a recent picture showing how she dresses in India. Aga Khan, a famous sportsman, is spiritual head of some 30,000,000 Mohammedans.

Such Manners!

LOS ANGELES.—A lesson in manners and a 180-day jail sentence was handed to J. Kerns, vagrant, by Judge Ida May for his impudence. In his trial Kerns insisted on addressing Judge Adams as anything but "Your Honor." He called her "Judge" and "mam," but refused to use the correct title. As a result he received 180 days in jail instead of the usual 30-day sentence, which is usually suspended if the defendant agrees to leave the city.

Touch On Mac

JUAREZ, Mexico.—Some American youngsters are not content with a sizeable amount of spend money every day. But let them go ya visit to Macario Ramos, little Juarez newsboy, and they'll mend their spending ways. Mac's mother is dead and his father is in Los Angeles. He supports himself on the 15 cents he makes every day selling papers. Half his monthly salary goes for room rent.

The world's biggest stamp collection is said to be that of the family of Baron P. von Ferrary, of Paris. This was begun in 1865, and has cost its owner about $2,000,000 up to date.

There were 1471 suicides in New York City last year, or nearly twice the number in 1920.

Close Call

COLUMBUS, Ohio.—H. S. Hazlegrove's taxi had been stolen. Patrolmen Waldo Barr and Bill Hilton found it and Barr climbed into it while Hilton looked for the thieves. As Barr sat in the cab another taxi driver saw it and hurried away for reinforcements. He returned with six or seven cab drivers who nearly mobbed Barr before they discovered his identity.

Money In the Air

LONDON.—J. Moore, Fishlake farmer, put $180 in bills in his inside coat pocket. He had just received the money from the sale of two cattle. As he walked outdoors, a strong gust of wind blew his coat into something like a balloon. It flared out and cast the money to the wind. There was a mad scramble to retrieve the bills. Some of them were found in tree branches, but $90 are still to be found.

More U. S. veterans are in hospitals now than at any time since the World war, a report of the Veterans' Administration shows.

Persons with incomes of $1,000,000 annually number 134 in 1930 as compared with 504 the year before.

Doors and drawers that stick should be rubbed with soap or bees wax.

Do Unto Others

UTICA, N. Y.—"Twas a cold morning and Fred DiPerna was ruining his entire day by laboriously trying to start his frozen car. Along came a fellow motorist and offered to push him until his car started. Later the same afternoon Fred came upon a motorist in the same fix he was. "Want a push?" asked Fred. The motorist looked up. It was the same fellow who obligingly pushed Fred in the morning. "That makes us even," said Fred, as he finished the job.

Thumbed Into Jail

MT. CARMEL, Pa.—Ben Zaleski and Joseph Lutz stole two overcoats at Shamokin State Hospital. As they were leaving the hospital, Dr. G. W. Reese saw them and telephoned police. In civilian clothes State Trooper Sauer drove to Shamokin, saw the pair standing on a street corner and stopped when they "thumbed" him for a ride. Instead of taking them to their destination, however, Sauer took them to police barracks.

Hard Blow

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Charles Lehman heard a suspicious noise in his front bedroom. Entering, he found his son, Lawrence, lying on his back with a tube from an open gas jet in his mouth. The father jerked the tube from his son's mouth and talked to him. The son did not answer and thinking the son had not taken enough gas to hurt him Lehman went to his own bedroom. Early next day he tried to awaken his son, but he was dead.

Attack Victim

Mrs. Thomas H. Massie, above wife of a naval lieutenant, stationed at Hawaii, has been revealed as the woman whose mistreatment by five natives resulted in the sensational vengeance slaying.

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels, take Baalmann's Gas Tablets, which are prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear; that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish, and you will again be able to take a deep breath without discomfort.

That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for entertainment. Bloating will cease. Your limbs, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Baalmann's Gas Tablets prevent gas from interfering with the circulation. Get the genuine, in the yellow package, at any good drug store. Price $1. Always on hand at WARD & SON'S.

Tar Heel Boxing Team

Leans on Soph Talent

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—(AP)—Sophomores will get a big chance on the University of North Carolina boxing team this year.

Marty Levinson, 125-pounder, is the only regular Coach Clayton Rowe has back in town, while George Biggs, 115, and Hugh Wilson, 175, are the only other men with varsity experience.

Rowe faces a tough problem finding men to replace such stars as Goodridge, Holderness, Davis and Warren.

Way Behind

SALTLAKE CITY.—The county attorney's office can't seem to keep up with Sheriff S. Grant Young's liquor squad and Pete Demaris. Pete was arrested by the sheriff on a liquor raid, and a persistent violator charge was sought against him. While the county attorney's office was busy figuring out whether it should be filed, Young's squad raided Pete's home again and found more liquor.

A "Bawl" Party

EL PASO, Texas.—From the looks of things, you'd think the seven patrons in the California Poppy cafe had orders for dinner. But they hadn't. Deputy Constable Hermenegildo Garcia was showing his tear gas gun to a friend when it accidentally went off. It caused the patrons to cry like babies.

High Heels For Women

LONDON.—High-heeled shoes not only suitable for women, should also be worn by men. This is a statement made by P. B. Rath, thopaeic surgeon. He says that high heel used by women of 10 puts the heel bone in a position that the weight of the body is put on the bone instead of its position only.

Some Sprinter

EVANSVILLE, Ind.—Harry walked out of store in time to thief getting away with his car. He ran after the car for half a block, jumped on the running board, man who was driving the car just out, leaving the car in gear. He drove the car in the direction the thief had taken and finally captured thief with the assistance of W. Douglas, who helped hold him. Police came.

Democrat Party Councils

Lawyer—Practicing at Little Rock for 18 years—entered United States Army as volunteer in May, 1917—discharged as major of infantry in January, 1919. Married. Miss Bernice Whitelaw of Pine Bluff in 1917.

What I Hope to Be United States Senator from Arkansas and am offering my candidacy in the August primaries for the long term.

I seize this opportunity through the courtesy of this paper of announcing to the citizens of Arkansas, and trust that they will receive with their characteristic "goodness" toward candidacy for public office, the fact that I am an avowed opponent in the race for the United States Senate, for the long term and at the August primary.

I make this announcement in the conviction that the voters of this state are eminently fair in the exercise of their ballots; and will cheerfully give their votes to the man who under all the circumstances seemingly is worthy of being the recipient of the ground that I am a World war veteran, and as such come from a class of citizens, who number at least 40,000 in the aggregate in our great commonwealth, and as such citizens represent a goodly portion of the inhabitants of the state and entitled to at least one representative out of the nine that make up our congressional delegation. In this position I am sure our citizens are manifestly fair and will concede the point.

Our Federal Constitution provides that each state shall be entitled to representatives in proportion to our inhabitants, and applying this recognized principle to the instant situation, in the name of fairness, let it be said that the Veterans who constitute such a large number of the citizens of Arkansas, are in like terms entitled to a representative in Congress from their ranks.

At the proper time I shall make formal announcement of my candidacy and to that end I ask the voters to yield their kindly indulgence.

1. I unqualifiedly ask for the immediate cash payment of the ex-soldier's bonus. 2. All possible aid to the farmer within the purview of economic soundness. 3. The lowering of taxes wherever possible and the speedy rehabilitation of the business and agricultural structure. 4. The passage of a Federal law prohibiting the use of Federal Aid highways by non-resident trucks engaged in interstate freight hauls carrying a load in excess of ten thousand pounds.

I feel that home-owned trucks with reference to weights are peculiarly subject to the whims of the citizens of Arkansas.

By way of explanation concerning the immediate payment of the cash bonus to the ex-soldiers of the nation and the state, I am reminded of a very convincing editorial appearing in one of our current, outstanding magazines in which it said: "In the end, after the war, there is nothing sadder than the surprise of the returning soldiers when they discover that they are regarded generally as a public nuisance and not as heroes."

"The Veterans of the recent struggle to make the world safe for democracy are now suffering that bitter bite in the United States. The same newspapers which were smothering them, ten or twelve years ago as heroes comparable to the old war veterans, are now currently as a rabble of pension-grabbers, without merit and without conscience. One hears that they have already got immense sums out of the Treasury and that their demand for more has no more equity in it than the demand of a Prohibition agent for his bribe. They are represented to be loafers who propose to live all the rest of their lives at the communal expense. So low-down have they become in the public esteem that even politicians venture to spit into their eyes. Lord Hoover, though naturally a very timorous man, was yet brave enough to do it at Detroit, and many another statesman, it seems likely, will be doing it presently in Washington, and with far superior aim and muzzle-pressure."

"In all this there is a great deal less than justice. The fact is that the damage the heroes suffered by being thrust into the war is much underestimated, and that the amount of compensation they have got since they came home is equally over-estimated. At no time so far as I can make out, have they ever asked for a bonus large enough to cover their probable average loss, or even the half of it. Most of them were mulcted of what amounted substantially to two years of their lives, and those years were, in many ways, the richest they will ever see. All were set back seriously in their careers, whether as garage attendants or as philosophers, and a large number were ruined altogether. But now that idealism is adjourned, when they ask for a modest dole to help them over a hard place in a hard time, they are treated as if they were hijackers holding up a Sunday-school ice-cream truck."

"There are, I suppose, two classes among the veterans, as there are two classes among the rest of us. The first consists of innocent fellows who still believe that the war they were forced to fight in was an honorable and altruistic enterprise, and that their own part in it, however unwilling, was a great service to humanity. The other class is made up of men who have come to the melancholy conclusion that it was all a swindle. But the difference, I venture to maintain, has nothing to do with their claim upon the country. Both groups, whatever their present views, were done out of something that was very valuable to them—more valuable, perhaps, than anything short of life itself—and both deserve to get some compensation for it, whether as heroes and martyrs on the one hand, or as suckers on the other. If, as some say, they were all heroes, then no reward could be too great for them, whether in cash or in homage. And if, as others say, they were all suckers, then certainly the country ought to have decency enough to restore to them at least a part of what it took from them by false pretenses."

"The theory that it is somehow disgraceful for a man to accept pay for serving his country is sheer poppycock. As a matter of fact, no one actually believes in it. If anyone seriously proposed, in time of war, that soldiers be given only their board, lodging and equipment, every national person would think it an outrage. Every man who braved the wicked Hun in the late crusade was actually paid in cash for the job, just as every Congressman at home was paid in cash for keeping him pumped up with idealism, and every ammunition-worker for providing him with cartridges. The generals behind the lines, of course, got more and the privates in the trenches got less, but every last man got something; the only substantial difference was that the compensation always seemed to run in inverse proportion to the work done. A man who risked his life and limb got barely enough to keep body and soul together, so that he arrived home when it was all over out of pocket as well as out of work, whereas one who remained on this side of the water and devoted himself assiduously to Geschäft emerged from the heroic business very well healed, and not infrequently enormously rich."

We are just beginning to pay for the war. It strikes me that little harm can be done to the tax-payers of this nation, if they float bonds, take the proceeds from such and immediately pay off the ex-soldier's bonus, in connection with the war. Death of Brilliant Net Star Is Announced HOUSTON, Tex.—(AP)—The death of Wilmer H. Trainer, Jr., brilliant young tennis player, was announced Tuesday.

The youth, a 19-year-old freshman in the University of Texas who had been regarded by Tennis Coach D. A. Penick as a bright prospect, died here Monday of complications that arose from an abscess of the throat.

He recently had returned from California, where he showed promise in tennis, having won a number of tournaments.

West Tennessee River Overflow After Rains

JACKSON, Tenn.—(AP)—Heavy rains Tuesday overflowed streams in West Tennessee and flung in one death. Mary Lou Hazard was drowned Tuesday near Jackson where her father's automobile overturned while crossing a flooded road.

Almost a mile of track of the Mobile and Ohio railroad was washed out south of Selmer and a small creek bridge at Finger was placed out of commission temporarily but later repaired.

Bedtime Announcement

Three-year-old Nancy's father had installed a new radio. Nancy listened with rapt attention to everything—music, speeches and station announcements.

That night she knelt to say her "Now I lay me." At the end she paused a moment and then said: "To-morrow night at this time there will be another prayer."—Stray Stories.

which means simply the payment of money into a sinking fund with which to retire the bonus certificates in 1945. Some of the Veterans entitled to the bonus will never live to cash their certificates and whatever bonus is coming to them should be paid now. We might just as well pay a bond holder as to divert the money into a sinking fund, and certainly the releasing of the bonus money into circulation will manifestly help to relieve our present depression.

It strikes me that the ex-soldiers will pool their political strength, as the tariff-babes have done, and bring irresistible pressure to bear upon the politicians.—Adv.

Millionaire "Kidnaps" Own Son

A legal battle in which officials of two nations may participate is expected to result from plans of Fort Worth, Tex., officials, to return Luther C. Turman, wealthy oil operator, from Monterrey, Mexico, on an indictment charging he kidnapped his own children. Mr. and Mrs. Turman, who were recently divorced and divided a million-dollar estate, each were awarded custody of the children for a part of the time, but Turman fled with them to Mexico where he has big oil interests. Shown here are the children, Luther, Jr., 8, and Tommy, 6, and their father.

German Ice Hockey Team to Make American Tour

BERLIN—(AP)—Germany's National ice hockey team will make a tour of leading American cities besides competing at the Lake Placid Olympics.

Four matches before the tourney and three after have been arranged in various cities including New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia, it is announced here.

The team will be picked after German National Hockey meet at Munich, to be held in early January.

A 1902 model automobile owned by August E. Holmberg of Superior recently was stolen.

Baudett, Minn., will be linked Rainy River, Ontario, by a new international toll bridge over a river.

THEY TASTE BETTER... THEY'RE PURE... THEY'RE Milder... They Satisfy

"I CARRIED the makin's for years. Got so I could roll 'em single-handed. But there's no real economy in it. 'The way I figure is this: A fellow don't spend so much on himself but what he can afford to enjoy the best in smokes."

"Myself... I smoke Chesterfields. They cured me of rollin' my own. First off, you get better tobacco. 'I'm not knockin' the makin's... but it stands to reason Chesterfields wouldn't be where they are today if they didn't give you the finest tobacco. I like their aroma."

"Plenty of Turkish in Chesterfields... and you don't get that in the makin's."

And there must be something about the blend, too... you can't get a milder, better taste... not anywhere!

"Got a right good opinion of myself, but I don't figure I'm as clever as those cigarette-making machines. Every single Chesterfield is round and filled right... beats anything you can roll yourself. Besides, it smokes cooler and lasts longer. I've tried both, so I know."

Nothing amateurish about Chesterfield's Radio Program, either! Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and Alex Gray, popular soloist, entertain you every night except Sunday, at 10:30 Eastern Standard Time, on the Columbia Coast-to-Coast Network.
